STREAMLINE PROCESS

Auto-Distribution simplifies the reporting process by allowing the import of an Excel contact list or the creation of customized distribution lists. Using his/her own distribution list, the physician can easily and quickly send the report automatically. For example a physician may wish to:

- Send a copy to his/her own office via fax
- Print a copy for Medical Records through the central printer
- Configure Auto Distribution to automatically send the report to the physician(s) listed in the Referring MD fields, the performing physician, etc.

You can include a unique note when sending a report manually

You can send reports manually to recipients not on the automatic auto-distribution list as needed

Auto-Distribution lets you customize contact lists for attending and referring physicians, and any other common report destination such as Medical Records. This entails setting up a contact list for the recipient and the preferred method of report receipt, i.e. fax, print, e-mail. The contact list is available for addition to any physician's personal distribution list.

Contrast Auto-Distribution (when used with CardioDoc) with the current process of dictation of the report, transcription of the dictation, review of the transcription, and finally the addition of the report to the patient's chart. This process often results in a 24-48 hour lag between the time of dictation and the time the report is available in the chart. The referral doctor's copy frequently is mailed and does not arrive for several more days. This is assuming that the physician completes the dictation immediately at the end of the procedure.

KEY AUTO-DISTRIBUTION BENEFITS
